D. A. R. TO GO TO RAMONA PARK

Members of General Richard Gridley chapter, D. A. R., are planning a splendid time tomorrow, which will be the climax of a busy and happy year's work. Mrs. Albert Babcock, vice-regent of the chapter, has invited the members of the chapter to her home at Ramona Park tomorrow afternoon. Arrangements are being made for machines so that every member may go and enjoy the good time being planned. There will be a business meeting at the home of Mrs. Babcock from 2 to 3 o'clock, and during this hour the officers will be installed. All the old officers were re-elected. Mrs. Mary Howard Gridley-Braly, regent of the chapter, was re-elected by acclamation. From 3 to 5 there will be a reception at Mrs. Babcock's home to a number of prominent Colonial dames who are visiting in Southern California at this time. Mrs. Maynard Thayer, state regent, will be present and give an address. A number of ladies belonging to other chapters have been invited to be the guests of General Richard Gridley chapter on this occasion and the event will be quite an important one in social circles. There will be refreshments served and a splendid time is being anticipated for this last meeting of the year.

MUSICAL PEOPLE WED

The charming home of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Herrod, 124 North Louise street, was the setting of a quiet but pretty wedding Monday afternoon, June 7, when Mr. Ralph Brainard of the DeKoven Opera company and Miss Bettie Dumas of Chicago, both prominent in the musical world, were joined in holy wedlock, Dr. E. H. Willisford of the First Congregational church reading the impressive service at half past three o'clock. The rooms were decorated in a pretty color scheme of pink and white, fragrant carnations and feathery fern lending their beauty for the happy occasion.

At the appointed hour the happy bride and groom, attended by Mr. and Mrs. Jack LeClair, took their places before the officiating clergyman, who made them one in the presence of the following friends: Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Halsett, Miss Helen Horn, Miss Margaret Wilson, all of Los Angeles; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Richardson and the host and hostess, of Glendale.

After a wedding repast daintily served, the newly made husband and wife departed for a honeymood trip to San Diego amid the hearty congratulations and good wishes of their friends.

Mr. Brainard is an old school friend of Mr. Herrod and both he and his charming wife have many friends both in the East and the West who will wish for their happiness.

ODD NAMES SUGGESTED

After the purchase of Alaska several names were suggested for the new possession, among them Walrussia, American Siberia, Zero Islands and Polario. The name now used was proposed by Charles Sumner, who stated it to be that bestowed by the Indians themselves and given to Captain Cook with the information that it signified "the great land."

GLACIERS OF THE PAST

GREAT LAKES ONCE FILLED WITH ICE THOUSANDS OF FEET THICK

Even to one trained in geology there is considerable novelty in the idea set forth by scientific men that during the "great ice age" the northern half of the North American continent was covered with vast sheets of ice hundreds or thousands of feet in thickness. One can scarcely blame the countryman to whom a geologist was explaining that the range of hills adjacent to his farm was the terminal moraine of one of those ancient glaciers when he said, "Yes, they tell me those hills were made by ice, but I've lived here nigh onto 75 years and I haven't seen any ice up there."

The study and mapping of the moraines and other deposits of the ancient glaciers has for a long time been one of the lines of scientific activity carried on by the United States geological survey. Besides being matters of geologic and geographic interest, the various glacial and other associated deposits are of great importance, particularly to the agriculturists in the northern part of the United States. The pulverized and mixed rock materials spread as glacial drift over the uneven surfaces of the older rock formations in this part of the country afford the deep, rich and enduring soils whose yield in farm products constitutes so great a part of the nation's wealth. The vast quantities of clay available for the manufacture of brick and drain tile and the widely distributed deposits of sand and gravel available for road material and concrete and other work—all the results of the great glaciers—are resources of no small value. In the swamps of the glaciated area lie stored great quantities of peat awaiting the time when conditions may require their use as fuel or fertilizer.

The marginal parts of many of the great ice sheets took the form of huge lobes or more or less distinct glaciers. It is not possible to differentiate all the lobes of the earlier stages of the glacial epoch, but the closing stages are fairly well defined by great morainal loops festooned across the northern states. The delineation of these moraines upon maps makes clear many interesting and important relations of surface configuration and drainage systems. An important contribution to the science of glacial geology, one of a series of similar reports, is Monograph 53 of the United States geological survey, "The Pleistocene of Indiana and Michigan and the History of the Great Lakes," by Frank Leverett and Frank B. Taylor. In this report the authors have continued the description of the glacial deposits and history of the Great Lakes region. Their maps show the relations of the remarkable systems of moraines formed by the glacial lobes which occupied the basins of Lake Michigan, Lake Huron and Lake Erie.

The history of the Great Lakes has long attracted the interest of geologists and geographers, and many papers treating of this subject have been written. The elucidation of this complicated history has been possible only as the result of many years' work in carefully mapping and correlating the ancient shore lines and the associated glacial deposits. In Monograph 53 all the available data bearing on the lake history are brought together. Some of the shore lines are no longer horizontal, and their relations show that at various times the several basins have been tilted by elevation or depression of the land surface. The effects of the weight of the great ice sheet and of other factors on deformation of the earth's crust are also considered.

FOR THE SAKE OF FAIR PLAY

For the sake of fair play, it is necessary for the Evening News management to announce that the rule of "you charge, we charge," as laid down by the Evening News almost two years ago, will be observed very closely. The space of a newspaper is divided into two divisions—the space devoted to the publishing of news, for which no charge is made, and the space devoted to publishing advertising, for which a charge is made. The two divisions are very distinct and may be understood by a mere child. Again we repeat the rule, "If you charge, we charge."

CITY HALL OFFICIALS IN WEEKLY SESSION

C. W. KINNAN MAKES GOOD SUGGESTION TO BOARD—GLENDALE TO BE REPRESENTED AT FLOOD CONTROL MEETING—IVY STREET PROPERTY OWNERS DISCUSS NEW CURBINGS—USUAL AMOUNT OF ROUTINE BUSINESS

The regular meeting of the board of trustees of the city of Glendale was held in the city hall Monday evening, May 7, 1915. There were present: O. A. Lane, president of the board, and Trustees Chas. Grist, J. S. Thompson, A. W. Tower and George Williams. There were also present: T. W. Watson, city manager; J. C. Sherer, city clerk; W. E. Evans, city attorney; H. B. Lynch, manager public service department; Edw. M. Lynch, city engineer; G. B. Hoffman, city treasurer, and G. H. Herald, city marshal.

The minutes of the preceding meeting were read and approved. A communication was read from Mrs. Eleanor Blackburn, now of Corona, but formerly of Glendale, tendering her resignation as a member of the board of directors of the Glendale library. On motion her resignation was accepted and the clerk was instructed to inform Mrs. Blackburn of the action of the board and to convey to her an expression of thanks from the board on account of her faithful services in connection with the library.

The following communication, which is self explanatory, was received from C. W. Kinnan of Patterson avenue, Glendale:

Gentlemen: I wish to call your attention to a serious defect in the manner of recent street improvements in Glendale.

Recently we of the northwest part of the city were made glad in that our streets were improved with pavements as fine as any in the land, and I doubt not, as good. But no sooner are these beautiful streets finished than the next man wanting to build a house comes along and tears up the pavement for a water connection, leaving a botched job of repairing behind him, which becomes permanently either a ridge or a gutter, usually the latter, and it seems impossible to make the repair without such a result.

On Patterson avenue, where I reside, there are many vacant lots, which means there will be many ridges or gutters across the street when the lots are all built upon, and the final result will be that our now beautiful and permanently paved street will become rough and worn and will be substantially as bad as it was before it was paved at all, making the street a veritable eyesore, to say nothing of the money wasted in paying for the improvement.

There is an easy way to avoid all these conditions, I firmly believe, and I urge upon you to adopt the method I suggest, or some other one equally efficacious to prevent this condition in future pavements. Do not let our street pavements continue in a manner forty years behind the times. Before coming to Glendale the writer was for eight years city attorney of his home city in the state of Indiana, and therefore is in position to know something of handling these and similar problems.

All live cities in Indiana have put a quietus on this sort of street butchering and have done it effectively, and this is the way they do it: They adopt an ordinance declaring it unlawful to open up any street to make public service connections, except under the oversight and control of the street commissioner, and then only after taking out a permit so to do, and giving a bond to restore the street to its original condition. This ordinance provides furthermore that before the roadway of any street or alley is paved, all public service connections — such as water, gas and sewer connections—must be made and brought inside the curb line, if in front, and inside the property line if in the rear, and that this must be done to every separate lot abutting on the street or alley. If the owner wishes to make the connections himself, he may do so, as above provided. But in case he does not do so, and it is proposed to lay a pavement, all these connections are included in the specifications for the improvement, and the contractors bid on these connections separately, at so much per connection. The successful bidder puts in all these connections to every lot, not already connected, and the cost thereof is added to the assessment for the cost of the pavement, against such lots where the connections have been put in by the contractor.

I have had no occasion to examine the street improvement laws of California, but I can see no good reason why such a plan would not be lawful in this state, and I think you will agree with me that it will be a happy way of preserving the streets intact after the owners of abutting property have paid for the improvement. In a city where there is so much property owned by non-residents, such a solution would be a happy way out of a situation which will fast become an eye-sore, and a disgrace to the streets of any city with any civic pride.

If I have said anything which will have any effect for good along the lines mentioned, and which will cause the board of trustees, city engineer and city manager "to sit up and take notice," I shall feel myself amply repaid.

A communication was read from C. R. Holton, city attorney of Whittier, calling attention to the fact that a meeting of the property owners interested in the flood control of Los Angeles county will be held in the hall of records on Wednesday, June 9. At this meeting flood control bill 459, which is now before the governor for his signature, will be discussed. Mr. Holton asked that three delegates be appointed by the board of trustees to represent the Glendale district. On motion the following persons were appointed as such delegates: Edw. M. Lynch, city engineer; W. E. Evans, city attorney; T. W. Watson, city manager.

A report from Health Officer Dr. R. E. Chase stated that during the month of May there were two cases of diphtheria, thirteen cases of measles, four cases of varicella.

Douglas Bruce of Sycamore canyon requested in a communication that he be allowed to sell milk in Glendale. On motion the request was referred to the dairy inspector.

C. W. Kent & Son, architects, contractors and builders, made application to erect a planing mill on the Salt Lake property near the Salt Lake station. The request was granted, Trustees Grist, Thompson, Williams and Lane, aye, and Trustee Tower voting no.

The hearing of protests against constructing a curb in connection with the street improvements on Ivy street was taken up. A letter was read from James Horne stating that he does not consider the old curbing worth saving and favors a new curbing. Many citizens who own property on Ivy street were present, some of them to advocate leaving the old curbing in and some of them to advocate replacing it by a new curbing The discussion was carried on in a very business-like and unprejudiced manner. The city engineer explained that all of the curbing that had been put in west of Central avenue and south of Broadway as the work of a land company, who had the work done as cheaply as possible and in bad condition, as is shown by the curbing that is being removed on Hawthorne street at the present time. Upon inquiry it was stated that the cost of the new curbing would be approximately 26 cents per linear foot. On motion it was decided to postpone the hearing for one week, which would allow the property owners to get together, examine the condition of the old curbing and decide as to whether they wish it replaced. The hearing of protests will take place Monday evening, June 14, at 8 o'clock.

H. B. Lynch, manager of the public service department, requested that the board authorize the president of the board of Trustees to sign an agreement allowing the city of Glendale to extend pipe lines across the Pacific Electric right-of-way at Ninth street. He also asked the board to authorize the chairman of the board to sign an agreement with the Pacific Electric allowing power lines to cross their right-of-way at two different places.

H. B. Lynch, manager of the public service department, asked that he be granted a vacation of two weeks, said vacation to begin June 19. The request was granted.

The question of summer band concerts was taken up for consideration. Two concerts are to be held each month and the suggestion was made that these concerts alternate, one being held on Brand boulevard and the next to be held at the city hall. By mutual consent of the board the question as to time and place was left in the hands of the city manager.

An amendment to the license ordinance, which passed several months ago, was read for the first and second times, and was laid over until next Monday evening for third and final reading.

The ordinance prohibiting heavy traffic on Brand boulevard south of Colorado street was taken up for the third reading and on motion was adopted.

The question of the ordinance now in force governing the sale and discharge of fireworks in Glendale was discussed at length. It seemed to be the expression of a majority of the members of the board that the ordinance remain in force.

The demands referred to the finance committee at the previous meeting were ordered paid.

LEAVE FOR NORTH

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Wightman of 601 South Central avenue leave tomorrow for an extended trip in the North. They will visit their daughter at Seattle, Wash., for several weeks and spend about two weeks taking in the Panama-Pacific exposition and other sights in the northern metropolis.

In honoring their going away, Mr. and Mrs. Wightman have been made the recipients of several social affairs by their numerous friends. A few weeks ago Mrs. Wightman was honored with a shower, when various articles of use to the traveler were presented to her. Recently the K. K. K. club and a number of invited guests invaded the Wightman home in honor of Mr. Wightman's birthday. Being near to Decoration Day, the decorations were of our country's colors, carnations and dainty silk flags being used everywhere and given as favors to the guests. Whist was enjoyed during the evening, Mr. Buchanan winning gentleman's first prize; Mrs. Purser, lady's first prize; Mrs. George Daniels, guest prize, and Mr. Plummer Van Sant, the consolation. Late in the evening an elaborate luncheon was served, of which a large birthday cake was a very important feature. Mr. George Lyon and Miss Alice Patterson entertained the company with a musical program during the evening.

Special guests were Mr. and Mrs. I. E. Gould, Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Van Cleave, Mr. and Mrs. John Lyons, Mr. and Mrs. George Daniels, Mr. George Lyons and Miss Alice Patterson. Perhaps the most interesting feature of the evening was the presentation to the host of a fine thermos bottle as a birthday remembrance from the guests.

FATHER O'NEILL GOES EAST

Rev. Father James S. O'Neill, who has been ill for some time with rheumatism and a patient at the Sisters' hospital, returned to Glendale last week and left Sunday for Boston, Mass., where he will visit his mother and other relatives and spend several weeks recuperating. Before leaving his parishioners presented him with a very substantial purse.

BROKE LIQUOR LAW

TRANSFER COMPANY FINED $50 FOR ATTEMPTING TO DELIVER BEER

Apparently ignorant that they were running directly contrary to a strict liquor ordinance of Glendale, the Tropico Transfer company undertook to deliver a quantity of beer in the city of Glendale a few days ago. That the company was ignorant of the existence of the ordinance making it a misdemeanor to deliver beer or other liquor within the city bounds appeared from the fact that Fred Bittle, the driver of the delivery wagon, made no attempt to conceal the nature of his freight, but drove through the heart of the city with his goods in full view.

Arrested by Officer Laurence, Bittle was bound over for trial, which took place in Judge Whomes' court Monday. Bittle was defended by Attorney Albert Pearce, but the ordinance dealing with the matter was so clear that the attorney advised his client to plead guilty and submit to the judgment of the court.

Judge Whomes, exercising leniency, fined the accused $50. This is the smallest fine ever imposed by the judge for an offense of this nature and was the result of the judge's belief that the offense had been committed in ignorance of the city's ordinance dealing with such matters.

For the information of those interested, section six of ordinance No. 65, dealing with this offense, is quoted: "Every person or any officer or employe of a railroad company, express company or other common carrier, or person, who shall within the city of Glendale knowingly carry or deliver any spirituous, vinous, malt or mixed liquors, or any alcoholic or intoxicating drinks or vessels containing the same, to or for any person, to be sold or used in violation of this ordinance, and any person who shall solicit or take orders within the said city of Glendale for any spirituous, vinous, malt or mixed liquors or any alcoholic or intoxicating drinks, to be used or sold in violation of this ordinance, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor."

MITE BOXES FULL

A most enjoyable and profitable time was had by the Woman's Home Missionary society of the First Methodist church Monday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Ingledue of 725 West Third street. The members were asked to bring their husbands or a friend, and they came to the number of eighty.

Miss Louella Collins, the mite box secretary, had charge of the opening of the mite boxes and the ladies were overjoyed to find they contained $26.30. Miss Collins was also chairman of the program committee, to whom thanks are due for the following entertainment:

Piano duet, Misses Margaret Lusby and Waunita Emery.

Reading, Miss Leone Brice.

Vocal duet, Mesdames Dana Goss and Will Goss, accompanied by Mrs. Chas. Burkit.

Violin solo, Elwood Ingledue.

Reading, Miss Marcella Miller.

Song, Mr. Philip Laichinger.

Refreshments were served and a social time enjoyed.

RIDING ON SIDEWALK

Glendale has a strict ordinance forbidding any person from riding on a bicycle on any sidewalk in the city. This ordinance has been violated very frequently of late. The temptation of course is very great to some people to take advantage of the smooth and comfortable sidewalk for wheel riding, especially in streets where the roadway is not in good repair. Warnings have been given by the police from time to time concerning this violation, but the frequent repetition of the misdemeanor seemed to demand enforcement of the penalty of the law.

Peter Pinoche was caught by Officer Laurence Monday in the act of riding on a bicycle on the sidewalk at Pacific and Vine. Brought before Judge Whomes, Pinoche pleaded guilty and was sentenced to pay a fine of three dollars, the minimum for a first offense.

DEATH OF ELIZABETH WOOD

Mrs. Elizabeth Wood, wife of John M. Wood of 137 West Park avenue, Tropico, died at her home Sunday, June 6, at 1:30 a. m., of heart disease. The deceased was born at Rochester, N. Y., Dec. 24, 1849. She leaves to mourn her loss five sons—Aloyseus, Frank, Charles, Leland and Edward; two daughters, Mrs. Cahoon of Tropico and Mrs. Tully of North Bend, Oregon, and her husband, John M. Wood. The funeral will be held from the Holy Family Catholic church Thursday, June 10. Interment will be made at Forest Lawn cemetery.

SYSTEM IN BUSINESS

No business can get along without system. So much importance is attached in these days to this principle in modern business that a magazine called "System" has arisen to chronicle new principles of system and to publish the results of successful businesses where new systems have been put in practice. Every business, great or small, must have a system for accounting for all expenditures and receipts. There must be no time of the day nor of the month nor year when a business man should not be able to tell by a glance at his books how his business is going. If the business is so large as to make that impossible, then frequent trial balances should keep him posted. In some businesses a nightly trial balance is made so that the proprietor knows every morning exactly how he stands.

It has been found that three-fourths of the business failures in the United States annually are caused by ignorance of this elementary principle. They have been conducted haphazard and in too many cases bookkeeping and bank deposit alike were conducted in the proprietor's pocket. Such businesses are doomed to failure from the beginning.

Every business man owes it not only to himself, but also to those with whom he deals, to keep an accurate and systematic account of what is owed him and to follow it up actively. There is always good sense in a system that gets there first. Frequently the easy-going business man is allowed to wait for his money while the firm that insists on being paid when the account is due obtains a settlement.

Indeed, attention to collections is one of the first principles of any properly conducted business. When a business is conducted on a cash basis and the customer is getting advantage of cash prices, the moment goods have been delivered, the sum that represents their value belongs to the seller and not to the purchaser. Should the purchaser go about neglectful of his debt, the seller should politely but firmly demand payment of the money that belongs to him. Every day that the buyer carries that money about with him, the seller is losing not only the use of the money, but also the interest it would be earning in the meantime. No honest purchaser ever objects to being asked for what he legitimately owes.

Furthermore, it is a principle in business that business men should so control their expenditures that they may be able to meet all their lawful obligations. When a business man finds that he is not able to meet his indebtedness promptly, he should immediately make inquiry into the cause. Incapacity to meet obligations is a sign of something wrong with a business just as pain is a sign of something wrong with one's body.

Such a symptom demands immediate steps to remedy the abnormal conditions. No wise business man will neglect such symptoms. He knows that if not attended to promptly, they presage bankruptcy.

LAPSES OF LEGISLATION

Thinking men and women are beginning to give expression to their strong disapproval of the multiplied legislation that is railroaded through the state legislatures every session. Some of these new laws are so foolish as to give rise to the question in the minds of many as to what legislators could have been thinking of when they permitted them to pass.

Minnesota recently passed a law to prohibit the catching of frogs. Kansas keeps itself in the "freak" column by prohibiting the use of face powder, hair dye, or bleach, the piercing of ears and the wearing of earrings. Colorado has laws to compel chickens to go to roost before 7 p. m. daily and provides that bulls driven along the roads at night shall wear lights. Perhaps some undigested school lesson about Hannibal's famous trick to delude the Romans was responsible for this latter piece of legal acumen.

In Massachusetts bachelors must pay a tax of $5.00 yearly and doctors and dentists are forbidden to wear whiskers. If the latter law could be shifted to Kansas it might work some reform. The idea of course is that professional men like doctors and dentists must not carry about a storehouse and hatching place for germs.

A law compelling the National Guard to do work on the roads and bridges of the state has some merit, although it would certainly meet with strong opposition in most states. It is long since it has been seen that the National Guard might have to justify its existence. Texas proposes to compel church-goers to leave their artillery on the outside of church buildings while attending worship. The value of a personal religion that cannot induce its professor to lay carnal weapons aside may be questioned, yet any Sunday in certain parts of California you can see men attending church with their revolvers and ammunition belts in conspicuous evidence, and these men, too, are by no means the worst followers of Christ in those neighborhoods.

It has been tried to forbid the giving of tips in various states, but the attempt has never been successful. Illinois is the latest state to make the experiment. It is easy to prophesy failure in that state also.

Minnesota, of course, knows its own business; but it appears to be rather a joke to compel lumber camps to supply lumberjacks with individual bathtubs. That is rubbing it in with a vengeance. Wit must be pretty thick in those northern, frost-bound states, for we don't hear the suggestion of a laugh from North Dakota when it was resolved to pass a law establishing uniform thickness for sleigh-runners.

Truly the weakness of the age is for regulation. Are we harking back to the days of "blue laws," witch hanging and similar practices?

DEVELOPMENT OF SUBMARINE WARFARE

Kaiser Wilhelm and his general staff should thank Conan Doyle, the British novelist, creator of "Sherlock Holmes," for the hint that has developed into the present submarine war against Great Britain. Doyle in a cleverly conceived and ably executed story written long before the war, detailed how in a supposed war between Great Britain and Germany the submarines of the kaiser lay in the channel, hovered off the Thames and sank one by one all the great British supply fleet.

Something like that is happening at present. The new and powerful submarines of the German fleet are waging a wonderfully successful war against the merchant fleet of Great Britain. Of course there is nothing brave and nothing dangerous in the sinking of unarmed vessels by powerful submarines, armed with the latest and most deadly torpedoes. There is also something pusillanimous in the spectacle of the powerful German fleet skulking in its roadsteads protected by immense mine fields and never daring to come out to strike a blow in open fight; but that is not the German view. The Germans cannot for a moment be deemed pusillanimous nor cowardly. They have sealed their courage on too many a blood-soaked field in these days to be doubted.

The German idea of warfare is to make the foe suffer by any and by every means and to preserve one's own force until wanted. On this principle they hurl masses of their soldiers in quarter column on the trenches of their enemies only to have them swept down unmercifully. They fling 1,000,000 men on the Russians and calculate that they have won even if they lose 200,000 out of that number, when they have performed such a feat as the retaking of Przemysl.

In like manner they count it good warfare to sink a British merchantman every day, even though the vessel be unarmed. They cannot capture those vessels with submarines, hence their destruction. "All is fair in war" was an old principle on which the Germans have vastly improved for they have done what no ancient warrior would have thought of doing—repudiated as "scraps of paper" the most solemnly ratified treaties.

To the modern kultur-obsessed German the high-minded chivalry of the French colonel at Fontenoy, who, lifting his chapeau, said to the colonel of the English regiment: "Gentlemen of the English army, fire first," must appear the veriest absurdity. What may be the ultimate result of the German method is difficult to foresee.

PLANTS CHRISTMAS TREES

That Uncle Sam is determined future generations of young Americans shall not suffer any decrease in the crop of Christmas trees is shown by the fact that the forest service is about finishing up its big planting of ten million trees. All over the vast areas of the national forest reserves in the western states, mostly in mountainous regions, this work has been vigorously prosecuted for several months. Not only does the government wish to preserve the stock of Christmas trees, but it seeks to preserve the fertility of the higher areas and prevent the washing away of the soil into the valleys by the rainfall. The trees and their roots form a huge reservoir on each hill and mountain, retarding the rainfall and snows, thus preventing floods as well as preserving fertility.

Under the care of the forest reserve men, an area equaling 14,000 acres have been put out this year in pines, larches, spruce, cedars, firs and similar varieties About two days has been required to plant one acre, the work being done by gangs of men who set out with wagons, cooking outfits and the paraphernalia of a mining expedition.

The young trees were grown in nurseries located at different pionts in the West. At these stations the seed is sown in huge hotbeds. This seed is gathered each fall by the ton.

SUMMER VACATIONS

About this time of the year many of my readers begin to consider a summer vacation. See that you plan wisely. Sometimes people return from a vacation more tired than when they left. A change of scene and surroundings is good, but it is not wise to leave a quiet comfortable house and move into noisy, stuffy lodgings. Get into the open air. If you have a garden in a restful part of town you may sometimes do better by playing at camping out at home. Rest and recuperation should be the object of those who work all the year round. Avoid severe and unusual physical stunts. Have no set program. Make up your mind to loaf. This does not apply to the young and vigorous. I am writing for those who have reached or passed middle age and lead a sedentary life. Such persons will do themselves harm rather than good by exhausting mountain climbing, or hours of swimming. The sudden change is too great.

After the return from a vacation there is often a "breaking out," especially among children, whose blood is more pure than that of the average adult. This is a sign that the oxygen baths have encouraged nature to undertake a house cleaning, and remove from the blood impurities that have long been lurking there. If you attempt to suppress these eruptions you do so at your peril. Rather encourage them, or you will lay the foundation for serious trouble in the future.

While you are resting the mind and body, give the overworked stomach a rest, also. Change of climate will do little good so long as you carry dietetic habits with you. Most people, when they take a holiday, eat more than usual, perhaps consuming three big meals a day at a resort hotel, because they have nothing else to do. If you spend your vacation where you can eat fresh ripe fruit, and nothing else, you will come back rejuvenated, and prepared to face the battle of life with renewed hope and energy.—Brain and Brawn.

IMPROVING VERDUGO PARK

Verdugo park was a busy scene Monday morning, when nearly a dozen carpenters, wiremen, painters, etc., took possession of the park, cleaning and remodeling the pavilion.

The White Star Patrol of the local lodge of Elks will give a series of dances here during the summer and they are not leaving anything undone for the pleasure and convenience of their patrons. They will have a floor large enough to accommodate sixty couples. Besides putting in more tables, seats and chairs, they have built an additional room for serving refreshments; also a bridge will be built and a driveway made across the car tracks and wash for automobiles. The hall will be decorated the latter part of this week.

They are planning to put on several special features at their opening dance next Saturday evening. Besides engaging Imes' orchestra, they will have professional dancers from Los Angeles to give exhibitions in the latest dances. Admission is free. Special cars will leave from in front of the clubrooms, Broadway and Brand boulevard, at 8 p. m. and a car every thirty minutes.

AT THE BROTHERHOOD

One of the best attended and most interesting meetings of the Congregational Brotherhood held this season took place Monday night in the church. The meeting was presided over by Mr. H. W. Yarick. The principal address of the evening was given by the Rev. Stanley Ross Fisher of Los Angeles, who gave an extremely interesting historical exposition of the genesis and evolution of the church meeting. His subject was "The Church Meeting—a Real Need of the Day."

Beginning with the apostolic age, the lecturer showed how the church meeting was a recognized factor in the Christian life of the first century. Its aim, however, was more directly of a missionary nature. The Christian propaganda occupied the energies of the apostles largely to the exclusion of other features. There was no social question in that age. The great feature of the apostolic first century was missionary activity.

Coming to the fourth century the age of St. Augustine and other great preachers and teachers, the lecturer showed how the attitude of the church had necessarily changed with the changing thought and social life of the day. Augustine was occupied greatly with doctrinal questions that had arisen in the course of the development of Christian thought. Those questions were handled by him in the church meeting and there threshed out and formulated and the church taught what its attitude should be toward them.

In the long period of the Crusade era the church was still finding its best means of reaching the people in the meeting where activities and results were discussed and learned. Then came the development of the liturgy of the church. That was the era of the building of the magnificent cathedrals that still remain in Europe as testimony of the piety and devotion of the age. There the church meeting largely devoted itself to the exploitation and enjoyment of beautiful liturgical service.

The whole aspect of church life has changed today. Now we have to face varied activities of modern life and keep in touch with them. This is best done in the church meeting. The church meeting must be progressive. It must handle the social questions of the hour and find some means of solving them. It must use modern methods and keep up to the advancing development of the age.

Refreshments were served and a pleasant social hour spent.

DOROTHY DE GASTON

Sad and shocking indeed was the news that came Monday that little Dorothy Louise DeGaston had passed away at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Percy DeGaston, 415 North Glendale avenue, Tropico. Little Dorothy had been ill but a few days, having come down with quinsy last Friday, this attack having caused her death.

She was nine years, seven months and eight days old, having been born in Missouri. She came to California with her parents four years ago and two years ago came to Tropico, Mrs. DeGaston being connected with the Cooper School of Music of Glendale. Dorothy is mourned by a host of little schoolmates and friends, her sudden death bringing sorrow to many hearts.

Funeral services will be private and will be held at the Pulliam undertaking parlors Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

TROPICO

The home of Mrs. Webster, 147 West Park avenue, was the scene of a pleasant affair Friday evening, June 4, when the A-7 and B-8 classes of the Tropico grammar school gave the graduating class their farewell party. The spacious lawn in front of Mrs. Webster's home was illuminated with many beautiful Japanese lanterns and much of the evening was spent playing games within the shadow of these soft lights. The class colors, red and white, were used in all decorations. In the parlor and dining-room red and white crepe streamers extended from each corner to the center chandelier, which was draped with ferns and red flowers. Beautiful hanging baskets filled with red and white carnations and ferns hung here and there. In the front hall and veranda the same color scheme prevailed, giving a brilliant setting for the happy young people, who enjoyed the evening immensely. Red and white layer cakes and vanilla and strawberry ice cream were served as refreshments. Among those present were: Mrs. McClure, Miss Burnham, Eloise Seaman, Lila Webster, Lila Shea, Jean Anderson, Geneva Martin, Irene Rich, Gladys Nofziger, Helen Muhleman, Ruth Ryan, Julia Milhorn, Robert Carmack, Allen Baker, Volney Enoch, Edward Selover, Howard Gaarder, Kermit Weeks, Daniel Cota, Frank Searle, Leola Webster, Bessie Wood, Helen Searle, Virginia Chappius, Dorothy Shaw, Gladys Goddard, Robert Hood, Mark Stoddard, Joseph Harrison, Lois Griswold, Geo. Reese, Henry Pahland, Henry Barlet, Rutherford Wallace, Mr. and Mrs. Hartley Shaw and Mrs. Curtis.

The final meeting of the Tropico Parent-Teacher association was held Friday afternoon in the Cerritos school, with Mrs. Mary Chadwick, the president, presiding. The teachers of the school presented the interesting program, which was keenly enjoyed from the fact that Mark Keppel, county superintendent of public instruction, delivered a talk. As an appreciation of Mrs. Martha McClure, principal, the teachers, patrons and friends very pleasantly surprised her by presenting a handsome cut glass bowl and an equally handsome cut glass vase. Mrs. Ella W. Richardson in a very appropriate speech presented these tokens of love and esteem to Mrs. McClure, who has been untiring in her efforts to bring the standard of the Tropico schools to that degree of excellency that is second to none in the county. Mrs. McClure was so surprised that it required a few minutes for her to regain her poise sufficiently to respond with the remarks that left none of her hearers in doubt as to her appreciation of the tokens, also regrets that she has severed her connection with the Tropico schools, having accepted a position in the Los Angeles city schools. The exercises concluded with light refreshments that were served in a room adjoining the assembly room, where the program was rendered. Several choruses by pupils of the various rooms were given. The decorations were also in charge of the teachers and consisted of Dorothy Perkins roses and ferns.

Robert L. Kennedy, who but recently has been elected as principal of the Cerritos school; Mrs. Martha McClure resigning the principalship, has been appointed as superintendent of the Tropico municipal playground. In accepting this position at this civic center, Mr. Kennedy during the summer vacation will become better acquainted with not only the children of this city, but with the patrons and the social and civic conditions of Tropico. Mr. Kennedy comes from Michigan, although he has spent several years in North Dakota and he comes very highly recommended from both states.

After a most delightful visit of several weeks as a guest at the home of his sister, Mrs. Charles A. Barker, 115 South Glendale avenue, Mr. Walter Barker has returned to his home in Chicago, stopping enroute to visit in Salt Lake City and Colorado. Mr. Barker while touring California enjoyed visiting the two great expositions in San Diego and San Francisco.

Mrs. Leigh Bancroft, who will entertain with a card party at her home on Brand boulevard Thursday afternoon, will be assisted by the ways and means committee of the Tropico Thursday Afternoon club. All members of the club are invited to be present and to bring their friends. Auction bridge and five hundred will be the games played.

Dr. and Mrs. Samuel A. Pollock of West Park avenue, Mrs. Louise Purnell of West Tenth and Mr. Thomas A. Morgan of Boston, Mass., motored to Chatsworth Park last Saturday morning, where they were the over-Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Appenfelder at their ranch home nestled up in one of the most beautiful canyons that lies near Chatsworth Park.

Mrs. Ella W. Richardson held a preliminary meeting at her home on Central ave., Saturday evening to devise ways and means for establishing a playground on the Pacific avenue school grounds for the benefit of the school children whose schools closed Friday. The principals of the various schools of Glendale were present, Mr. and Mrs. Richardson D. White, Mrs. Frank G. Taylor, Mrs. M. Ogden Ryan, Miss Anna McIntyre and Mrs. Fanny Stone; also the presidents, past and present, of the various Parent-Teacher associations of Glendale. Plans were freely discussed pro and con relative to establishing a playground for the children who will be greatly benefitted by having such a central place to pass many hours during the vacation. The parents are also greatly interested in this enterprise as then they will be kept in touch with their children who might be tempted to roam the streets of Glendale idly this summer and all are familiar with the old saying that "Satan always finds mischief for idle hands to do." It is earnestly requested that all who are interested in this noble and worthy cause should assemble at the Pacific avenue school Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock and assist in formulating plans, ways and means for establishing a playground for the Glendale school children.

EAGLE ROCK

Rev. and Mrs. M. Post and the former's sister, Mrs. Ely of Vermont, are in San Diego this week attending the exposition.

Mr. Salem Parker of Ridgeway avenue, who conducted the musical convention here last week, is spending a couple of weeks at Fresno.

The Christian Endeavor held a business meeting one evening last week at Howard Mason's home on Ridgeway avenue and elected new officers as follows: President, Otho LaPorte, vice-president, Miss Lenora Johnston; secretary, Miss Dorothy Koethen; treasurer, Howard Mason.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hammer of Los Angeles spent Sunday at the home of W. S. Moe and family on College View avenue.

The vice-presidents of the Epworth League met their committees at each of their homes Tuesday evening and made many plans for the new year.

Thomas Mason and family are now living on Lawrence avenue, awaiting the completion of their new home on that same street. Mr. and Mrs. Richardson of Los Angeles have bought the house vacated by Masons and will soon move in it.

Mrs. Allard, who recently moved to Oregon, has sold her home here on Eagle avenue to a Miss Schofield of Arizona.

The Children's Day program given Sunday morning at the Methodist church was well attended and the children did splendidly. Songs, drills, readings and a violin solo made up the program.

Mrs. McNitt and Miss A. Swan attended the San Francisco fair last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Byrne of Los Angeles have moved into the house on South Central avenue formerly occupied by the C. M. Berger family.

The vaudeville which is being prepared by several well-known men of this city will take place Saturday evening, June 19, at the Woman'h clubhouse.

Mrs. C. R. LaPorte of Palm avenue gave a most delightful surprise towel shower Saturday afternoon in honor of Misses Dorothy Sanborne Mamie Truelson, who will be married soon after they graduate from Occidental college. The house was decorated with asparagus fern, roses, red hearts and cupids. When it was time the two brides-to-be sat on a pillow under a basket which was filled with packages containing towels, and then pulled ribbons that brought four hearts together in pairs and threw the basket over. The towels came falling down on them. The afternoon was spent in hemming and monograming guest towels for the two girls. Dainty refreshments were served to sixteen girls.

Prof. Paul of Occidental college and his wife and son, Samuel, are now living in the house on Acacia avenue which he recently purchased.

THE HIGH SCHOOL ALUMNI ASSOCIATION MEETS

A general meeting of the Alumni association of the high school took place on the evening of June 5th. The principal object of the meeting was to arrange for the proper welcoming of the graduating class into the order. Miss Ellias, the president, arranged for the appointment of capable committees for thorough charge of all details.

A surprise was sprung on the members when Miss Eula Richardson put her spacious residence on Central avenue at the disposal of the association for the occasion. The offer was joyfully accepted and arrangements started at once for taking complete advantage of the special privileges thus offered.

Some disappointment was expressed at the light attendance at the meeting. The secretary explained that the register of the association had been mislaid and could not be located until after it was too late to send written notice to the various alumni. The only recourse, a repeated newspaper notice, was adopted. With the register once more among the archives of the association, both written and public notice can be given the members and they are invited and expected to be present at this next meeting, which will be held on the evening of the 19th.

A WAKE-UP SONG

Sun's up; wind's up! Wake up, dearies!
Leave your coverlets white and downy.
June's come into the world this morning.
Wake up, Golden Head! Wake up, Brownie!

Dew on the meadow-grass, waves on the water,
Robins in the rowan-tree wondering about you!
Don't keep the buttercups so long waiting.
Don't keep the bobolinks singing without you.

Wake up, Golden Head! Wake up, Brownie!
Cat-bird wants you in the garden soon.
You and I, butterflies, bobolinks and clover.
We've a lot to do on the first of June.—Chas. G. D. Roberts.

A Pittsburg expert in such matters estimates that over 2,000,000,000 cubic feet of natural gas has been wasted in the Oklahoma field alone during the last two years. The only reason that can be offered for this wastage is that natural gas is so plentiful in Oklahoma that nobody thinks it worth while to save it, store it, conserve the supply.

Rain is a thing entirely beyond human control. Human knowledge and labor will take advantage of it, but they did not create it. It was a gift. In the same way the crops, the possibility of growth that is inherent in seeds, the suitability of fruits and grains for human consumption, the very land itself, is a gift. Men do not make these things. They only make use of them, and draw from them the very strength that makes their use possible.—San Francisco Bulletin.

Thirteen was the sacred number of the Mexicans and ancient people of Yucatan. Their week had thirteen days and they had thirteen snake-gods.

VALUE OF EDUCATION

An expert on social settlement work estimates that the uneducated man earns about $1.50 per day, or $18,000 in forty years. The average man who has spent twelve years in school, completing the high school course, earns $1000 a year, or $40,000 in forty years. The difference between the two—$22,000—represents the cash value of an education to the average person, this expert holds. But an education is worth more than $22,000 in forty years, as compared with an ignorant existence. Education has other values than those measured by money. It has intellectual development value for the individual. And it has great intrinsic value in the influence it sheds upon human society.

SYMPATHY

At the urgent request of the umpire, the pitcher plodded his weary way to the clubhouse.

"I lost my head, I guess," he vouchsafed, as he hesitated near his manager.

"I saw a dog gnawing something outside the gate," sympathized the manager.

REPAIRING KID GLOVES

If a kid glove splits at the thumb or near a seam, a permanent way to repair it is to buttonhole it either side of the split, then sew the buttonholed edges together. The result will be a new, firm seam, says the Baltimore News. When buttonholing be sure to take a good hold, otherwise the stitching will pull out from the kid.—Exchange.

FROM "THE SENSITIVE PLANT"

Broad water lilies iaw tremulously,
And starry river-buds glimmered by,
And around them the soft stream did glide and dance.
With a motion of sweet sound and radiance.

And the sinuous paths of lawn and of moss,
Which led through the garden along and across,
Some open at once to the sun and the breeze,
Some lost among bowers of blossoming trees.

Were all paved with daisies and delicate bells.
As fair as the fabulous asphodels,
And flow'rets which, drooping as day drooped, too,
Fell into pavilions, white, purple and blue,
To roof the glow-worm from the evening dew.

—Percy Bysshe Shelley.

SOUNDING GLASS

Procure a thin, tapering drinking glass, a piece of thin, black thread, about two feet long, and a long lead pencil. Cut a small groove around the pencil near one end. Make a slip noose in each end of the thread and slip one into the notch and place the thin glass in the other with the thread near the top. When the pencil is revolved slowly the thread will slip back with a jerk that produces a ring in the glass. This may be kept up indefinitely. The movement necessary is so small that it is imperceptible.—Popular Mechanics.

"The constant drop of water penetrates the hardest stone. The constant gnaw of Towser wears away the hardest bone. The constant cooing lover wins the flinty hearted maid, and the constant advertiser is the one who gets the trade."

The scriptures of the Old and New Testament are a rounded whole, and they proceed on lines clearly drawn in the general consciousness of the ages.—Gladstone.
